FREQUENT FLYER MILES:

Frequent flyer registration is the responsibility of each traveler. If you are not registered with the airline and would like to be, you should do so with the airline before departure day (contact info above). It is not always possible to give your frequent flyer number during check-in when traveling as a group. Therefore, it is important that you keep your boarding passes. It is easy to submit the information on the internet when you have returned home.

U.S. CUSTOMS & IMMIGRATION:

You will clear U.S. Customs and Immigration when you first land in the U.S. on your return. U.S. law prohibits possession of alcoholic beverages by anyone under the age of 21. Whether you purchased an alcoholic beverage as a gift, or received it as a gift yourself, know that it may be confiscated by Customs officials. You are allowed to bring back $800 worth of goods without paying duty. For purchases totaling $800 or less, you do not need to list each item on the Customs form you will receive

RETURN:

Those planning to meet the return flight should call the airline to verify the flight arrival time. Be sure to speak to an agent, rather than use the automated system, in the event a flight number has changed.

Note: Be sure to leave a copy of this information at home.
